

CONTENTS

List of figures and tables	viii
Notes on contributors	x
Acknowledgements	xiii
Editors' introduction	xv
Steve Schifferes and Richard Roberts
Overview: Soothsayers of doom?	xxiii
Lionel Barber

PART I

The banking crisis and the media 1

1 Willful blindness: The media's power problem	3
Dean Starkman
2 Why the media got it right	16
Chris Roush
3 The US media and the 2009 stimulus package	28
Anya Schiffrin
4 The British media and the 'first crisis of globalization'	42
Steve Schifferes and Sophie Knowles
5 From Wall Street to Main Street: Australian finance and business journalism and the crisis	59
Michael Bromley

PART II
The Euro-crisis and the media		73
6	The Irish press, politicians, and the Celtic Tiger economy Mark O'Brien	75
7	The Spanish press: No illusions Ángel Arrese	87
8	European media views of the Greek crisis Stylianos Papathanassopoulos	103
PART III
Challenges for the media		119
9	What are financial journalists for? Damian Tambini	121
10	The media and the crisis: An information theoretic approach Joseph E. Stiglitz	140
11	Why the public doesn't trust the business press Steve Schifferes	153
12	The mediation of financial information flows: Traders, analysts, journalists Peter A. Thompson	169
13	Paying for crisis news: The dilemmas of news organizations Gerben Bakker	187
PART IV
The lessons of history		201
14	Financial crises and the birth of the financial press, 1825–1880 James Taylor	203
15	Boom, crisis, bust: Speculators, promoters, and City journalists, 1880–1914 James Nye	215

16	'Run on the Bank': Covering the 1914 financial crisis Richard Roberts	227
17	The pound and the press, 1919–1972 Richard Roberts	245
18	'Goodbye, Great Britain'? The press, the Treasury, and the 1976 IMF crisis Duncan Needham	261
	PART V
	Media messengers under interrogation	277
19	UK financial journalists quizzed by MPs Edited by Jeff Hulbert	279
	Index	291