

Contents

List of illustrations	xi
Preface Cobus de Swardt, Managing Director, Transparency International	xiii
Foreword Rai Souza Vieira de Oliveira, founder of the Gol de Letra Foundation and captain of the Brazilian 1994 World Cup winning team	xv
Acknowledgements	xvii
Executive summary Gareth Sweeney, Editor, Global Corruption Report, Transparency International	xix
Part 1 Governance of sport: the global view	1
1.1 Sport as a force for good Bob Munro, Mathare Youth Sports Association and Mathare United FC	3
1.2 Fair play: ideals and realities Richard H. McLaren, McLaren Global Sport Solutions	12
1.3 Autonomy and governance: necessary bedfellows in the fight against corruption in sport Jean-Loup Chappelet, IDHEAP Swiss Graduate School of Public Administration	16
1.4 Obstacles to accountability in international sports governance Roger Pielke Jr, University of Colorado	29
1.5 Political interference, power struggles, corruption and greed: the undermining of football governance in Asia James M. Dorsey, S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies	39
1.6 Corruption in African sport: a summary Chris Tsuma, Africa Centre for Open Governance (AfriCOG)	44
1.7 Impunity and corruption in South American football governance Juca Kfoury, Folha de São Paulo	52

1.8	Indicators and benchmarking tools for sports governance Arnout Geeraert, Catholic University of Leuven	56
1.9	Examples of evolving good governance practices in sport Michael Pedersen, M INC	62
1.10	For the good of the game? Governance on the outskirts of international football Steve Menary, World Soccer	65
1.11	Image-laundering by countries through sports Naomi Westland, Amnesty International UK	73
1.12	Opening the door to corruption in Hungary's sport financing Miklós Ligeti and Gyula Mucsi, Transparency International Hungary	79
1.13	Challenges and approaches to ensuring good governance in grassroots sport Mogens Kirkeby, International Sport and Culture Association (ISCA)	88
1.14	The Code of Ethics for sport in the Municipality of Milan: a grassroots approach against organised crime and corruption in sports Paolo Bertaccini Bonoli, Transparency International Italy, and Caterina Gozzoli, Catholic University of Milan	94
	Part 2 Money, markets and private interests in football	99
2.1	Offside: FIFA, marketing companies and undue influence in football Jamil Chade, O Estadão	101
2.2	Measuring the United Kingdom's 'offshore game' George Turner, Tax Justice Network	105
2.3	Unfit, improper ownership in UK football clubs Arjun Medhi, UK Chartered Institute for Public Finance and Accountancy	109
2.4	Agents and beyond: corruption risks in the football transfer market and the need for reform Raffaele Poli, Football Observatory of the Centre International d'Étude du Sport, University of Neuchâtel	114
2.5	Third-party ownership of football players: human beings or traded assets? Jonas Baer-Hoffmann, FIFPro	118
2.6	Origins, practice and regulation of third-party ownership in South America Alexandra Gómez Bruinewoud, FIFPro, and Gonzalo Bossart, Alessandri, Bossart, Pacheco and Cia	125

Part 3 Events in the spotlight	131
3.1 The multiple roles of mega-events: mega-promises, mini-outcomes? Martin Müller, University of Zurich	133
3.2 Who bids for events and why? Scarlett Cornelissen, Stellenbosch University	139
3.3 The problem with sporting mega-event impact assessment Eleni Theodoraki, Edinburgh Napier University	143
3.4 Corruption and the bidding process for the Olympics and World Cup Andrew Zimbalist, Smith College	152
3.5 Compromise or compromised? The bidding process for the award of the Olympic Games and the FIFA World Cup Stefan Szymanski, Michigan Center for Sport Management	157
3.6 The planning and hosting of sports mega-events: sources, forms and the prevention of corruption John Home, University of Central Lancashire	163
3.7 Preventing corruption in the planning of major sporting events: open issues Wolfgang Maennig, Hamburg University	169
3.8 Malpractice in the 2010 Delhi Commonwealth Games and the renovation of Shivaji Stadium Ashutosh Kumar Mishra, Transparency International India	174
3.9 Preventing corruption ahead of major sports events: learning from the 2012 London Games Kevin Carpenter, Captivate Legal and Sport Solutions	178
3.10 The 2014 Sochi Winter Olympics: who stands to gain? Oleg Golubchikov, Cardiff University	183
3.11 The need for transparency and monitoring ahead of the 2018 World Cup in Russia Anna Koval and Andrew Jvirblis, Transparency International Russia	192
3.12 Sporting mega-events, corruption and rights: the case of the 2022 Qatar World Cup Sharan Burrow, International Trade Union Confederation	198
3.13 The Brazilian experience as 'role model' Christopher Gaffney, University of Zurich	204

---

3.14	Rio 2016 and the birth of Brazilian transparency Andy Spalding, Pat Barr, Albert Flores, Kat Gavin, Shaun Freiman, Tyler Klink, Carter Nichols, Ann Reid and Rina Van Orden, University of Richmond	211
3.15	Sports mega-event legacies: from the beneficial to the destructive Helen Lenskyj, University of Toronto	218
3.16	Urban speculation by Spanish football clubs Nefer Ruiz Crespo, Transparency International Spain	223
Part 4	Match-fixing	229
4.1	Why sport is losing the war to match-fixers Declan Hill, investigative journalist	231
4.2	The role of the betting industry Ben Van Rompuy, TMC Asser Institute	236
4.3	Cricket in Bangladesh: challenges of governance and match-fixing Iftekhar Zaman, Rumana Sharmin and Mohammad Nure Alam, Transparency International Bangladesh	242
4.4	The gap between sports institutions and the public will: responses to match-fixing in Lithuania Rugile Trumpyte, Transparency International Lithuania	250
4.5	Australia's 'National Policy on Match-Fixing in Sport' Jane Ellis, Transparency International Australia	254
4.6	Match-fixing: the role of prevention Ulrike Spitz, Transparency International Germany	257
4.7	New media approaches to tackling match-fixing in Finnish football Annikka Timonen, Transparency International Finland	262
4.8	Prevention and education in match-fixing: the European experience Deborah Unger, Transparency International	264
4.9	The Austrian approach: how to combat match-fixing and promote integrity in sport Severin Moritzer, Play Fair Code	269
Part 5	The US model: collegiate sports and corruption	273
5.1	The roots of corruption in US collegiate sport Donna Lopiano, Sports Management Resources	275

5.2	Academic fraud and commercialised collegiate athletics: lessons from the North Carolina case Jay M. Smith, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill	286
5.3	The evolution of professional college sport in the United States Allen Sack, University of New Haven	293
5.4	Inequality, discrimination and sexual violence in US collegiate sports Erin Buzuvis, Western New England University, and Kristine Newhall, University of Massachusetts, Amherst	300
	Part 6 The role of participants: within and beyond the sports family	307
6.1	The International Olympic Committee's actions to protect the integrity of sport Pâquerette Girard Zappelli, International Olympic Committee	309
6.2	Combating the risk of corruption in sport: an intergovernmental perspective Stanislas Frossard, Council of Europe, Enlarged Partial Agreement on Sport	313
6.3	UNESCO: building on global consensus to fight corruption in sport Nada Al-Nashif, UNESCO	318
6.4	The role of Switzerland as host: moves to hold sports organisations more accountable, and wider implications Lucien W. Valloni and Eric P. Neuenschwander, Froriep	321
6.5	Promoting integrity in sport: a sponsor's perspective Jaimie Fuller, SKINS	327
6.6	A player's perspective on the need for reform to enhance transparency and integrity in sports Louis Saha, Axis Stars	332
6.7	Organised athletes: a critical voice in sports governance Brendan Schwab, UNI World Athletes	335
6.8	The role of supporters in effective governance Ben Shave and Antonia Hagemann, Supporters Direct	339
6.9	Learning from others: the Kick It Out campaign Richard Bates, Kick It Out	345
6.10	Big business blurs sports journalism's critical eye Peter English, University of the Sunshine Coast	347

x CONTENTS

---

6.11	New ball game: covering sports, with teams as competitors	352
	John Affleck, John Curley Center for Sports Journalism
6.12	What the anti-corruption movement can bring to sport: the experience of Transparency International Germany	359
	Sylvia Schenk, Transparency International Germany
	Index	363