

Contents

ix	List of Illustrations
xiii	Preface and Acknowledgments
xvii	Abbreviations
xxi	Note on Terminology
xxv	Prologue
xxvii	Introduction

PART 1. Violence, Allegiance, and Authority in the Making of Kingdoms and Colony

3	CHAPTER 1. Chief by the People: Nomsimekwana Mdluli, Security, and Authority in the Time before Tribes
29	CHAPTER 2. He Said He Wants to Be Registered as a Chief: Hereditary Chiefs and Government Tribes, 1843–1905

PART 2. The Violence of Young Men, Forced Removals, and Betterment

- 61 CHAPTER 3. Ngangezwe Claims to Be a Hereditary Chief:
Organizing Authority by Wards and War, 1905–1930
- 85 CHAPTER 4. They Refuse to Go to Other Chiefs' Areas: The Nagle Dam and Forced Removals, 1930–1950
- 107 CHAPTER 5. He Said He Wanted the Tribe to Decide: Boundaries and Betterment, 1948–1971
- 135 CHAPTER 6. Only the Fourth Chief: Ethnic Politics and Land Jurisdiction, 1971–1988

PART 3. Civil War in South Africa

- 165 CHAPTER 7. Because My People Are in the MDM, I Have to Be with Them:
Ethnic and African Nationalist Politics during Civil War, 1983–1990
- 189 CHAPTER 8. They Were Worried about the Way Our Chief Was Managing His Nation: Land, Authority, and Belonging, 1990–1996
- 219 Conclusion
- 231 Notes
- 299 Glossary (isiZulu–English)
- 301 Bibliography
- 329 Index