

Contents

Preface
Encountering non-fiction	vii
1 Introduction
Historical and theoretical approaches	1
2 Unusable pasts
The secret history of Demetrios Tsafendas: assassin, madman, messenger	21
3 Literatures of betrayal
Confession, collaboration and collapse in post-TRC narrative	47
4 In search of lost archives
Nostalgia, heterodoxy and the work of memory	71
5 A very strange relationship
Ambition, seduction and scandal in post-apartheid life writing	97
6 Some claim to intimacy
Political biography and the limits of the liberal imagination	123
7 In short, there are problems
Literary journalism in the postcolony	141
8 Unknowable communities
Necessary fictions and broken contracts in the heart of the country	159
9 A new more honest code
Memoirs of the 'born frees' and the futures of non-fiction	185
10 Afterword
The extracurriculum	213
Bibliography	225
Index	241